Murder suspect dies Man allegedly hangs himself in county jail

By Scott Kelly
Staff writer

One of the suspects in the Paul E. Stell Jr. murder case allegedly killed himself Tuesday.

According to the Madison County Sheriff's Department, Jerry L. Champion, 24, of the Bel Vista Trailer Court in Lebanon and lately of Madison County Jail, hanged himself from the bars of his cell using his long underwear.

The apparent suicide occurred between checks by jail guards.

Just before that, he had allegedly tampered with the locking mechanism on his cell door by stuffing plastic wrapping into it, preventing prison guards from immediately opening his cell door when they discovered what had happened.

Champion was a suspect in the April murder of Stell. Champion, along with Christopher Smith, 26, of the 1100 block of St. Thomas Road in Granite City, were charged with first degree murder.

The two men were arrested after a police investigation led to Champion and Smith. According to reports, Stell, Champion and Smith had all become involved in an altercation April 3 at Smith's Granite City residence.

The men allegedly had been drinking and began fighting. Stell was beaten with a tire iron, but the beating was not fatal. After the beating, Champion and Smith allegedly took Stell to the levee near the Chain of Rocks barge canal and strangled him with a rope.

They allegedly put his body in the canal, where hunters later spotted the body and notified authorities.

The Madison County Coroner's office report said that strangulation was the cause of death.

Both Champion and Smith had attempted suicide in April from their cells at Madison County Jail. Champion had slit his wrist and was found lying on the floor of a day-room shower. He apparently made the cut from a disposable razor

Chairman maintains board will close county homes

By Scott Kelly
Staff writer

Despite a state panel's wishes, the Madison County Board is proceeding with closing the county's Nursing Home and Sheltered Care Home.

At the end of Wednesday's regular meeting, Board Chairman Rudy Papa announced that the county is still closing the homes.

Last Thursday, the Illinois Health Facilities Planning Board in Chicago denied the county's proposal to close the homes. Instead, officials suggested the County Board lease or sell the homes and put on the November ballot the question of "The whole government's getting crazy. They're putting money first and people second."

closing the homes. The deadline for ballot referendum questions is Aug. 30.

"This decision was reached after years of debate," Papa said. "It was not an easy decision to make, and the process of developing and implementing the closure plan is proving to be just as difficult."

Voters rejected a bond issue in March to build new homes and declined to raise the .05 percent property tax slated specifically for funding the homes. The County Board then held a special meeting and decided to close the homes. They submitted their proposal to the state board, which in turn, rejected the proposal.

"Their major concern was the

Costello 'disappointed' with Clinton But Congress has several more pressing issues, area representative says

By Scott Cousins
Staff writer

While disappointed at the President Bill Clinton's personal conduct, U.S. Rep. Jerry Costello, D-Bellefonte, said Tuesday that people want some kind of conclusion to the investigation, and Congress has other things to worry about.

On Monday, the president appeared via video in front of a grand jury and admitted to having an "inappropriate relationship" with White House intern Monica Lewinsky.

The president said the relationship and his initial denial of the relationship was "wrong" and "constituted a critical lapse in judgment and a personal failure on my part."

In addition to admitting to the relationship, Clinton also criticized Special Prosecutor Kenneth Starr for the length and breadth of the investigation.

"What I have heard for the past several months and what I've heard yesterday is that the people are sick and tired of this. It's gone on for five years, we've spent $50 million dollars, and what people want is closure, one way or the other."

"I'm glad the president addressed the American people last night, but I am disappointed in his conduct and that he misled me and the American people for the past several months," Costello said.

Regarding impeachment, Costello said he would reserve judgment until "we have all of the facts in."

He said Congress will receive the report in September.

"We'll have to wait for the Starr report and the president's response to determine whether there has been an impeachable offense," Costello said. "We will be in a position then to know exactly what the facts are and we won't have to speculate."

He said impeachment is a drastic measure.

"Before we talk about impeachment we ought to have the facts in," he said. "Impeachment proceedings will have a major effect on our country, it will have an effect on our economy, it will have an effect on our standing in the world community."

He pointed out that impeachment proceedings have only happened once — against Andrew Johnson, who

Enterprise zones spark County Board tiff

By Scott Kelly

At the Madison County Board meeting Wednesday, two resolutions concerning county enterprise zones sparked a brief debate on the larger issue of tax breaks.

The resolutions called for establishing an enterprise zone for a proposed restaurant and larger development in Pontoon Beach and extending existing enterprise zone

2 area women charged with child neglect

By Scott Kelly
Staff writer

A Venice woman and a Granite City woman were arrested for child neglect after allegedly leaving two children in their car while they shopped.

Mary Ann Holmes, 37, of Venice

Homes in Venice, and Brenda G.

Arnold, 27, of the 2800 block of Nancy were each charged with neglect Wednesday for leaving two children, ages 3 and 6, unattended Tuesday evening on the Shop 'N' Save parking lot.

According to police reports, several customers told a store clerk that there were two small children alone in a green Ford on the lot. The car's windows were apparently rolled down.

The older child was crying, the clerk told police, and the younger one was asleep. The clerk took the children inside the store, where Arnold, mother of one of the children, found the clerk with the kids.

Police said the clerk took the younger child to the employee lounge.

Holmes, care-giver for the child, came and took the child back to the car. She then re-entered the store to purchase some items.

Arnold said she had just gone inside to buy a soda and knew she shouldn't have left the two.

Police said the temperature was about 90 degrees at the time and the humidity was high.

NAFTA has failed all those involved

By George Becker

On July 13, the United Steelworkers of America, joined by Made in the USA Foundation, filed a suit in a federal court seeking to void the North American Free Trade Agreement.

Our legal position rests on the foundation and bedrock of our republic, the Constitution of the United States, which clearly requires that "two-thirds of the Senators present (must) concur" with any treaty negotiated by the executive branch of our government.

Had NAFTA been considered by our founding fathers, there is little doubt that they would have considered it a treaty. As noted constitutional scholar Laurence Tribe of Harvard Law School recently stated, NAFTA "Almost certainly" should be considered a treaty. Because "it's a major and enduring commitment to elaborate mechanisms of mutual enforcement."

But, contrary to the explicit procedure specified by our Constitution, NAFTA did not receive the required approval by two-thirds of the Senate, and therefore, should be declared null and void.

NAFTA did not receive that necessary approval for a good reason — because it is not in the best interests of the American people. In fact, NAFTA has been an unmitigated disaster for working people in Canada and Mexico, as well as the United States.

"We deserve a trade treaty that recognizes working families and communities as central to the economy and that allows people to earn enough to actually buy the goods they produce."

The so-called "free trade" system that NAFTA established across North America has given predatory corporations license to hunt for the cheapest labor and the lowest environmental standards on the continent. To make matters worse, the twisted logic of the treaty encourages even socially responsible corporations to join the hunt to remain competitive.

No working person — U.S., Canadian or Mexican — should be forced to trade hard-earned economic security for the "opportunity" to work harder and longer for less. In fact, the community should have to accept lower environmental standards or imports of tainted food for the chance to keep some of its citizens working.

But that kind of blackmail is what NAFTA is all about.

NAFTA is about giving Wall Street investors and giant multinational corporations complete freedom to ravage workers and communities across the continent. It's about creating a global economy that pits workers in all three countries against each other, telling us that we have to work less and forget about values like loyalty, fairness and patriotism.

As a result of NAFTA, thousands of companies have moved their U.S. operations to Mexico. They include many familiar and prominent names: RCA TV sets, Oshkosh overalls, American Standard plumbing fixtures, TruTemp hardware products, Fruit of the Loom T-shirts, Farrah pants, Woolrich coats, Smith Corona typewriters and Good-year tires.

Even the Energizer bunny has become a contestant in this race to the bottom of the economic ladder, and by the end of this year, he will be riding south on a Huffy bicycle.

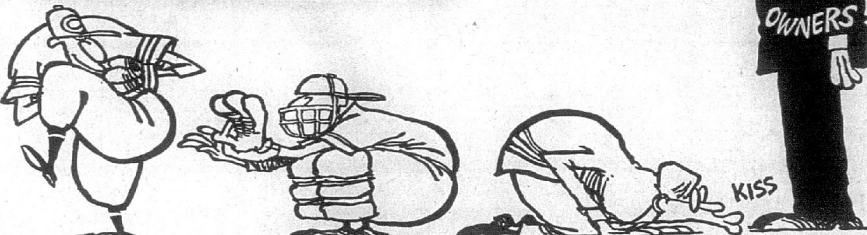

For working families and communities, NAFTA has failed and not just in the U.S., where we've lost nearly a half million of good-paying jobs and seen our trade deficit with the treaty countries balloon by $22 billion. It's also failed in Mexico, where workers have seen their wages drop by at least 27 percent since the treaty was implemented. And it's failed in Canada, which has lost more than 137,000 highly-paid industrial jobs as a result of NAFTA.

North American workers and our communities deserve better. We deserve a trade treaty that recognizes working families and communities as central to the economy and that allows people to earn enough to actually buy the goods they produce.

We believe our lawsuit will succeed, and as a result, NAFTA will be off the books. But whether the lawsuit succeeds or not, the Steelworkers Union will continue the fight to repeal NAFTA and replace it with a treaty that will serve the interests not just of Wall Street and the bond market, but of working families and communities throughout North America.

George Becker is president of the United Steelworkers of America, representing 750,000 people in the United States and Canada. For more information, visit the NAFTA lawsuit website at www.nafta-lawsuit.uswa.org.

THE FARM GUY

Info needed before moving to Farmtown

It's a beautiful fall morning in a rural community somewhere in farming country USA.

In the distance, you can see the tops of tall buildings and you can hear the buzz of traffic on the interstate.

The air is a little heavy because of light rain overnight, so farmers will have to wait awhile for the bond market to go to the field to shell corn. Instead, the morning will be spent cleaning out the hog barn.

The afternoon brings sun, and the fields have dried off enough to go back to shelling corn.

Out comes the combine, the tractors and the trucks to haul

David Schumacher

the grain home to the bins. Oh, by the way, I failed to mention it's Saturday in Farmtown, USA.

Here comes the problem. The farmer's livelihood depends on getting that crop out of the field. The fact that it is Saturday or Sunday doesn't enter the farmer's mind.

Urban sprawl has moved in on all sides of Joe Farmer, and suddenly, he is faced with problems — petitions from neighbors and county boards passing laws and putting restrictions on what he can do and when he can do it on a farm that has been in his family for generations.

Who wins?

I took the long way around, but this is what I wanted to tell you about. We may have the solution, and believe it or not, it comes from New York State.

The state wants people who are thinking about buying land in agricultural areas to know that they may have to deal with such things as animal smells and big machines in the fields. The new law requires that a prospective buyer must receive information about the farming practices in the area when a purchase or sale contract is presented.

The sponsors of the bill hope this will inform buyers of what to expect.

They also hope it will result in fewer lawsuits against farmers for just doing what they do. What do you think? Will it work? I hope so.

LETTER TO THE EDITOR

Money won't improve schools

The Twentieth Century Congressional fix for everything has been "throw money at it." Congress has been doing that for 60 years, no matter who is in charge. And our present Congress hasn't learned its lesson yet. There are some things that money can't buy.

A satisfactory public education is one of them. We spend three times the amount of money today than we did 30 years ago, and our sagging test scores and performance ratings continue to plummet.

That is simply because money is not the solution, rather, it's the problem!

There is no doubt that good teachers should be paid well for what they do. But in a government-structured system, such as we have with public schools, you cannot differentiate in salary between good teachers and those who are mediocre or inept. When the sole test for hiring is credentials, there is no guarantee that you will fill your vacancy with a good teacher.

There was a time in this country when individuals accepted and suffered lower incomes to be teachers. Their dedication to imparting knowledge to young people transcended their personal desire to be affluent.

For a lot of years, we took advantage of these individuals until teachers unionized. Collective bargaining made salaries for all teachers more acceptable by social standards, and thereby, decreased the emphasis on the ability to teach.

When those increased salaries became the norm, a lot of people who had little interest in teaching but a lot of desire for a well-paying job began lucrative retirement. The result was a watering down of the effective level of instruction across the board and complete ineptness in some instances.

As a society, we have totally discounted motivation as an element of significance. In our schools, we are paying a terrible price for doing that. The burning desire to impart knowledge to young people is the element which fired the spirit of excellence as an element of motivation in our schools. The only viable element of measure for teachers that has been retained is tenure, which means that we pay the highest salaries to those who have been in the system the longest without regard whatsoever for ability to teach.

I am not condemning teachers. Quite to the contrary. Social mistakes are the culprit here. We believed that we could buy quality, but our efforts have proven only that we can pay more and get less. Today's measure of a good employee in the public school system is the one who makes the most money. That criteria has nothing to do with teaching.

At the risk of irritating some people whose religious biases overwhelm their good sense, I have to mention private schools, whose salaries do not compete favorably with public schools.

There is not as much money ploughed into private schools, yet they get better results. There are a myriad of factors that contribute to this condition, but the simple fact remains that the added money being spent in public schools is not generating educational excellence.

Today in public schools, dedication takes a back seat to equal opportunity and collective bargaining. These things are not themselves evil, but when they are allowed to replace an individual's desire to teach, they contribute to the degradation of academic accomplishment.

We sorely need to restore the importance of professional dedication to our public school teachers. And we need to create ways to reward that quality.

Week welcomes students

Registration, on-campus students beat last year's numbers

By Paul Mackie
Staff writer

Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville officials hope "Welcome Week" will help thousands of freshmen and returning students make a smooth adjustment into a new year of higher education.

"We're already starting to see some lines at the bursar's office, and students are buying books in the University Center and renting texts at the library," said Keith Nichols, director of University News Services.

With Prairie Hall ready to open alongside Woodland Hall, there are more new students living on the campus of Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville than ever before.

"Right now, registration for fall is way ahead of this time last year," said Scott Brigham at University News Services. "Our freshman count is pretty high. Both residence halls are filled up."

School begins Monday, with weekend classes starting Aug. 29. Welcome Week, from Monday through Friday, Aug. 28, is intended to involve more students in campus life.

Residential check-ins at Prairie and Woodland halls and Cougar Village is Friday through Sunday. For information, call 650-3931.

"The students are all over a specific time to check in and if they're early, they can wait at the University Center," Nichols said.

Students are invited, beginning Monday, to explore campus organizations and other university groups at information booths in the Goshen Lounge of the Morris University Center.

LiveWire Band will perform in the William G. Stratton Quadrangle from 11:30 a.m. to 1 p.m. Wednesday, Aug. 26.

"There will be bands, games and the annual rappelling down the library," Nichols said.

"Fraternities, sororities and student leadership groups will also be on the quad. That's when everybody gets to party before they get their feet back on the ground."

A Merchant's Fair will be from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. Thursday, Aug. 27, in the Morris Center. "The Edwardsville retail community makes itself more visible," Nichols said. "Theoretically, there are 1,000 students in the residence halls, so these are two groups of people who want to get to know each other."

Friday of Welcome Week, a Late Nighter party will be held in the Meridian Ballroom of the Morris Center, featuring video karaoke, spin art, psychic readings, games and a dance and video laser light show.

On Aug. 26, another season of The Good Buy Book Shop Book Sale will begin. The annual fund-raiser for Lovejoy Library will be held in room 0012 of the library. The shop sells low-priced books and remains open every Thursday through the fall semester from 11 a.m. to 3 p.m.

Also Aug. 26, Disability Support Services will host an open house for students, faculty, staff and the general public from 1:30-4:30 p.m. in room 1311 of Peck Hall. For more information, call the group's program coordinator, Jane Floyd-Hendey, at 650-3726.

In addition, former U.S. Surgeon Gen. C. Everett Koop is scheduled to kick off this season's Arts and Issues series Sept. 12. For information about the series call 650-2626.

Group offers insight on accessibility

By Dennis Grubaugh

Madison County officials have taken under advisement a group's offer to review building plans for problems with handicapped accessibility.

Three employees of IMPACT Inc., a non-profit advocacy group for the disabled, entered a meeting room in wheelchair to lay down a review plan for members of the Madison County Board's Land Use Committee.

"We want to be partners," said Cathy Contarino, IMPACT assistant director. Contarino spoke for the group that included independent living specialists Marlin Thomas and Steve Mueller.

IMPACT, based in Alton, works with seven communities reviewing commercial building plans for compliance with the Illinois Accessibility Code and the American Disabilities Act.

County officials said they are not convinced they need IMPACT's assistance, but promised to contact the agency with a decision.

"We try to do things as quickly as possible," said Joe Parente, director of building and zoning, referring to the way the county reviews building plans. His concern, he said, is that including IMPACT in the decision making may slow down the process.

However, not including IMPACT may cost developers if they have to alter anything they've already built.

"We catch something every time we review a plan," Contarino said.

She cited Charlie's Restaurant in Granite City, which recently added large restrooms only to find that the facilities lacked the required 5-foot turning radius for wheelchairs.

Parente said he wants to sit down with his two plan inspectors to get their ideas.

"I think we do a pretty good job of reviewing plans, but I'm sure there are some things we miss from time to time," he said.

Parente said the county does not get that many commercial plans to review and most of the projects go to municipalities — with many of which IMPACT already works. Residential building plans are exempt from American Disabilities Act guidelines, he said.

IMPACT approached the county several years ago, but was turned down. Since that time, it has lined up arrangements with Alton, Edwardsville, Bethalto, Collinsville, Wood River, Glen Carbon and East Alton.

Contarino pointed out that the county's own Administration Building, thought to have been a model for handicapped access, has its flaws. Among other things, the restrooms are a tight fit, and the County Board chambers cannot accommodate a board member who might be disabled. The first floor of the chambers and the balcony overlook are accessible, but all the board members sit in tiered sections that are accessible only by stairs, Contarino said.

Please join us in wishing Donald and Elsie continued happiness and congratulations.

Twelve area municipalities have received their share of motor fuel taxes paid into the Illinois Treasury during July, according to the Illinois Department of Transportation. Motor fuel tax funds are allocated monthly to Illinois municipalities for improvements to streets and highways. The funding amount is based on population.

Metro East municipalities receiving the funds include:

- Alton — $71,942.50;
- Belleville — $96,096.67;
- Collinsville — $50,673.51;
- East St. Louis — $89,089.24;
- Edwardsville —

$44,045.84;

- Fairview Heights — $34,258.85;
- Granite City — $71,294.09;
- Madison — $10,072.04;
- O'Fallon — $43,556.29;
- Venice — $7,769.99;
- Waterloo — $14,314.95;
- Wood River — $25,000.59.

built. The Gateway Enterprise Zone is located at Interstate 270 and Illinois 111.

"Pontoon Beach justifies this going into the enterprise zone by saying it's going to create 130 jobs," Rea said, but he explained he couldn't imagine they would be mainly part-time, minimum-wage jobs with few or no benefits.

"It's not the type of business we need to create an enterprise zone," Rea said. "That area is going to develop anyway."

The resolution was tabled pending further information. The board passed the next resolution 21-4 but only after some members had voiced their concerns.

In the enterprise zone at the northeastern end of the county, the boards of Alton, Wood River, Hartford, Roxana, Bethalto, South Roxana and East Alton all agreed to extend enterprise zone benefits to GRP's expansion project.

GRP has been an established business for years and seeks to move to larger facilities by Illinois 111. The enterprise zone in that area has been in existence since 1986.

"We're right back where we started with what Mr. Rea talked about," said Board member Harold Byers of Highland. "Again we're subsidizing industries that have no business being subsidized."

Companies making large profits are the ones the county is subsidizing at the expense of the other taxpayers in the county, he said. Byers said the board needed to put a stop to use of tax increment financing districts and enterprise zones for which they were never intended. Many companies will come to the county anyway.

"They were meant for depressed areas," he said. "Let's end this TIF deal in our county."

However, other board members argued that it should not be considered by the board like a TIF district, and that GRP was an existing business that had already made a significant impact on the county and was looking to make an even bigger impact.

Rea countered by saying that with enterprise zones and TIFs, others shoulder the additional burden of the temporary benefits the businesses get.

"I agree with Mr. Rea on the (Pontoon Beach resolution), but this particular one — GRP has been in business for many, many years and has paid taxes throughout the years," said Board member Robert Stille of Edwardsville, who said he favored granting the extension.

Mobile home destroyed in suspicious blaze

A mobile home was destroyed in what fire-fighters call a "suspicious" fire Tuesday night in Eagle Park.

The fire was reported at about 11:30 p.m. at 11 Hill St.

"It was totally engulfed when we got there," said Assistant Fire Chief Robbie Robbins. He said the home was unoccupied and the utilities were turned off, so the blaze is considered suspicious.

In addition to destroying that home, the fire damaged the siding on a neighboring building.

THE LAW AND YOU

By RICK REED
Attorney At Law

Sometimes a person will fall behind in paying a bill, and the creditor will begin contacting him. People in this situation have indicated that some creditors call them during the day, at night, and at work. The question arises as to what a debtor can do to make arrangements to pay a bill.

Many people in this situation attempt to make arrangements to pay the delinquent payments on a monthly basis. It is important to note that a creditor is not obligated to accept such an arrangement. Often the consumer will indicate that he offered to pay $25 or $50 per month toward the back payments, and that it was refused. The creditor does not have to accept such an offer.

In fact, most loan agreements provide for acceleration of the balance owed if the borrower falls behind. In other words, if a debtor becomes delinquent on a loan, the entire balance can be demanded.

What options are available to a debtor in this situation? One possibility is to borrow the money elsewhere and pay off the balance owed. This is often impossible, however, due to the poor credit rating of the individual. Another possibility is to contact the creditor and work out a satisfactory payment schedule. Sometimes the delinquent consumer will indicate that the creditor agreed to accept a specified monthly payment toward the balance and then wind up filing suit anyway. Generally speaking, the creditor is not bound by such an informal agreement to pay the arrearage.

A further option for the debtor is bankruptcy. If a Chapter 7 bankruptcy is pursued, the creditor cannot contact the debtor regarding payment of the bill. Furthermore, it will prevent the lender from filing suit against the borrower for the balance. Bankruptcy also stops all lawsuits in progress. If the debt is an unsecured loan, usually a Chapter 7 bankruptcy will discharge the entire obligation. The purpose of a straight bankruptcy is to give the debtor a "fresh start," and this certainly is a viable option for a person who falls behind in paying his bills.

A final option for the debtor is a Chapter 13 bankruptcy. This is also known as a wage earner plan. It allows the delinquent person to make his payments to the creditor on a monthly basis pursuant to a plan through the bankruptcy court. A Chapter 13 bankruptcy will also prevent the creditor from contacting the debtor regarding payment of the bill.

Social security, HMOs top voter concerns, rep says

By Scott Cousins
Staff writer

Despite much talk about Monica Lewinsky, President Bill Clinton's grand jury appearance and the president's televised apology, some voters in U.S. Rep. Jerry Costello's congressional district have other concerns.

Two major ones are the Social Security system and health care, he said.

With Congress in recess, Costello is holding office hours in various locations this week.

On Tuesday, he was at Venice City Hall. He said many people, especially those already on Social Security or who are ready to retire, are concerned about the system.

Costello said those people have little to worry about, but younger "baby boomers" may have.

"For people who are on social security today, it is a solid system," he said. "There is a significant surplus in the fund right now."

However, there are no changes made to that system, the Social Security fund will run out of money sometime between 2025 and 2027.

"For the baby boomers who are paying into the system today, when they begin to retire, the number of people in the workforce supporting the retirees changes significantly," he said. "What we're going to have to do is come up with a method of making sure Social Security is around for those people."

Costello said one factor may be the $60 billion budget surplus predicted for this fiscal year.

"Many in Congress are running around saying we should take that surplus and spend it on various things," he said. "I have said that I believe we should not spend that money on anything until we come up with a solution to shore up the Social Security system for future generations."

He also said some have supported investing social security funds in the stock market, something Costello said he thinks is a bad idea.

Social Security funds are by law invested in U.S. Treasury bills. The bills pay less interest but are considered the safest financial investment in the world.

"I think we ought to proceed very cautiously," Costello said. He said such a move would be risking the future of social security.

"It's great in good times, but if you have a dry like we had two weeks ago when we dropped 300 points, it will have an effect on future generations," he said.

Costello said health care, especially regulating health maintenance organizations, is another big topic for voters.

"There are a number of people in the area who have had major problems with their HMOs," he said. "They pay their health insurance premiums every month, but when they become ill or a family member becomes ill, they have to fight with bureaucrats with the HMOs in order to have payments made for medical services."

He said both the Democrats and Republicans sponsored bills to deal with the problem. The democrat version, which Costello co-sponsored, was supported by both medical and legal lobbyists while the republican version was supported by the insurance companies.

"Unfortunately it (the Democratic bill) failed," he said.

scaped being impeached by one vote. Impeachment proceedings were started against Richard Nixon, who resigned.

Costello said voters have told him they want some kind of conclusion.

"What I have heard for the past several months and what I've heard yesterday is that the people are sick and tired of this," he said. "It's gone on for five years, we've spent $50 million dollars, and what people want is closure, one way or the other."

"I hope now that we can put this matter behind us and begin to address the important issues facing this country," he said. "I think the American people understand that the decisions the president made were personal decisions. They know people should be held accountable for their own actions, and the president will be held responsible."

He said Congress had other problems to deal with: "Social Security, HMOs, improving public education, doing something about crime."

"The first family has their problems obviously that they're going to have to deal with," he said. "But let the Congress start to deal with the problems that we face."

U.S. seeks execution of Martin

EDWARDSVILLE — Federal prosecutors plan to seek the death penalty for the kidnapping and murder of 11-year-old Selma Duane of St. Louis.

Federal charges are pending against David R. Martin of St. Louis, who is accused of kidnapping the Boonville, Mo., girl from her home in the middle of the night Aug. 2, taking her to the area around Horseshoe Lake in Granite City, and shooting her in the back of the head as she tried to escape.

Selma was last seen by her parents at 11:30 p.m. on Aug. 1 but apparently was abducted at around 4 a.m. on Aug. 2. Fishermen discovered her body.

The Madison County State's Attorney's office has charged Martin with first-degree murder and aggravated kidnapping, but a representative for Edward L. Doud, U.S. Attorney for the Eastern District of Missouri, said the county office agreed to waive prosecution in favor of federal charges.

Jan Ditz, a public affairs officer for the U.S. Attorney's office, said federal charges will not be immediate.

State nixes home closings

CHICAGO — A state board in Chicago on Thursday denied Madison County's proposal to close its Nursing and Sheltered Care homes.

The Illinois Health Facilities Planning Board instead suggested county officials try to lease or sell the homes and put the question of whether to close them on the November ballot.

The deadline for ballot referendum questions is Aug. 30. Voters rejected a bond issue in March to build new homes and declined to raise the .05 percent property tax that is slated specifically for funding the homes.

Buddy Maupin, regional director of the American Federation of State, County and Municipal Employees Council 31, said Thursday was a great day for the union.

Madison County Administrator James Monday said the county will consult with lawyers about the state's decision.

Granite City annexes properties

GRANITE CITY — With little fanfare but much required reading, Granite City Council annexed approximately 80 properties into the city Monday night.

The majority of the properties are within Nameoki Township, north of Penton Road and East of Maryville Road.

The council suspended normal rules and annexed all the properties during a rescheduled council meeting.

Granite City wanted to make certain the properties were officially in the city before Mitchell repititioned the courts for its incorporation ballot.

Granite City has made preannexation agreements with owners of at least 70 properties to be annexed into the city once those properties physically touch the city. Mayor Ron Selph said the city is still accepting preannexation agreements.

Many in township want no part of resident drives

NAMEOKI TOWNSHIP — While Granite City and Mitchell continue the fight over annexation versus incorporation, several hundred residents in Nameoki Township are petitioning to be left alone.

Ken Davis, Nameoki Township supervisor, said Monday that owners of 337 properties in the township have signed a petition to be presented to the circuit court.

Those property owners elected not to be included in the Mitchell incorporation and did not want to annex into Granite City, he said. Almost half as many township residents petitioned the city for annexation.

The Nameoki petition drive came about after Nameoki officials wanted to make sure residents fully understood what was going on and that they had three options — joining Granite City, joining Mitchell or remaining exactly as they are, Davis said.

Homes —

availability of alternative living arrangements for the residents of our facilities and their well being," Papa said.

The county intends to maintain the Sheltered Care Home until all residents have suitable places to which they can move, Papa said, but he said the board remains steady in its desire to end county involvement with long-term care services.

Some county residents at the packed board meeting weren't buying it. Jo Ann Hazzard had worked for the homes for almost five years and said that her mother had worked there before her and that her grandmother had been a patient.

"They should keep them open no matter what the costs," she said. "The whole government's getting crazy. They're putting money first and people second."

The only homes they will find for some Sheltered Care residents will be in the state hospital, Hazzard said.

"The one home is on prime commercial property," she said, pointing to what she and other home supporters think is a big reason behind the county's move.

Another supporter, who wished not to be identified, called the county's move "a crying shame" and didn't like the vote to close them.

"Politics, politics — that's been the main thing all along," she said.

The rules of the Health Facilities Planning Board gives the county the opportunity to provide them with additional information before the state board votes on whether or not to finalize its intent to deny the closing applications.

Getting ready to teach

Faculty and staff have worked hard to prepare for the new school year. Clockwise, from top left, Barbara Varbee, second-grade teacher at Harris Grade School, talks with another teacher; Marshall Grade School custodian Bob Adams puts air into the tires of a dolly; Paige Brisco, a Kindergarten teacher at Harris, sorts letters for classroom decoration; Shawndell Wilson, who runs the resource center for grades kindergarten through third at Harris, hooks up computers; Mike Murphy, left, and Adams, custodians at Harris, move a teacher's desk from the first floor to the second floor; Paula Kwiatkowski, a second-grade teacher at Marshall, goes through school supplies.

WEDDINGS

Juan and Sandra Rios

Rosemann-Rios

Sandra Roseann Shed and Juan Manuel Rios were married June 20, 1998, at Good Shepherd Roman Catholic Church in Ferguson, Mo., by the Rev. Gregory Milkech.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles H. Shed of Granite City.

The groom is a doctor of internal medicine and has his own practice in Collinsville.

The maid of honor was Candy Marie Carty of Ferguson, daughter of the bride. The bridesmaid was Niki Higgins, friend of the bride.

The best man was Larry Nowicki Jr. of Ferguson, son of the bride.

The groomsmen were David Christopher Shea Nowicki, son of the bride.

The flower girl was Melonie Schnermund. The ringbearer was Anthony J. Rios, son of the groom.

Ushers were Joe Schnermund, Jason Lacey and Roy Henke, all of Ferguson.

A reception was held at the church hall, and the couple's wedding trip was to Niagara Falls.

Dawn and Jason Naney

McIntosh-Naney

Dawn Marie McIntosh and Jason Alan Naney were married May 16, 1998, at Nameoki United Methodist Church in Granite City.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Michael McIntosh of St. Louis. She is a 1995 graduate of Truman University with a degree in political science and is employed by Morrison-Knudson Corp. of St. Louis as executive assistant to the vice president, general manager and director of business development. She plans to continue her education at Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville in the fall.

The groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Alan Naney of Granite City. He is employed by Nooter-Erikson of St. Louis as a process engineer and instrumentation designer.

The maid of honor was Karen Jacoby, cousin of the bride. Bridesmaids were Kristy Dobler, Heather Colyer, Kelly Reed, Melinda Allen and Sara Chearis.

The best man was Trendt Francis. Groomsmen were Jaron Naney, brother of the groom; Jimmy Naney, cousin of the groom; Shawn Sheikh; Tim Dobler; and Chris Mertzennier.

After a honeymoon in Cancun, Mexico, the couple lives in Granite City.

ANNIVERSARY

Pauline and Stanley Soboleski Sr.

Soboleski-60 years

Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Soboleski Sr. will celebrate their 60th wedding anniversary on Sept. 3.

Mr. Soboleski and the former Pauline Brulenski were married Sept. 3, 1938, at St. Mary's Roman Catholic Church in Madison by the Rev. Aubert Keuter, OFM.

Stanley is retired from the Granite City Army Depot, where he worked for more than 30 years. Pauline is retired from St. Mary's Madison Federal Credit Union.

They are the parents of three children, Stan Soboleski Jr. of St. Louis, Delores Brinker of Madison and the late Sharon Soboleski.

They have seven grandchildren, Valerie Slover, Sharon, Eric and Philip Brinker and Amlee, Lisa and Jonathan Soboleski.

They have one great-granddaughter, Rebecca Slover.

Better Breathers hold meeting

The Better Breathers Club members held the regular monthly meeting Tuesday afternoon in the Weisman Room at St. Elizabeth Medical Center.

Carol Smith, coordinator, introduced the speaker, Shelly Schuler Blaes, a dietitian from SEMC. She spoke on nutrition and hypertension, diet and pulmonary disease.

Shirley Wendel, secretary, read minutes from the last meeting. Susie Horton, president, called for new business and announced the members will be selling raffle tickets on a quilt (one for $1 to three for $2). Winner will be announced at the Christmas party.

Lynn Revelle from Respi-Link is scheduled to speak on "Home Patient" at the next meeting, to be held at 1 p.m. on Sept. 15 in the Weisman Room.

Luncheon was served to James Noe, Mary Margaret King, Pearl Kamadulski, Elsie Stagg, Kenneth and Rosella Fuller, Billy Uhlis, Maxine Green and JoAnn Simper. Shirley Wendel won the door prize.

The Esther Class of the Suburban Baptist Church met Monday evening in Wilson Park. Members attending the outdoors fellowship and lunch were Helen Cook, Helen Lilly,

Maxine Green

Ruth Bunker, Evelyn Mohorn, Ruth Messey, Susie Bunker and Susie Horton.

Kathy Green was the honored guest at a surprise birthday party hosted by her mother, Myrtle Moad, Saturday evening. She received gifts and telephone calls from relatives in Las Vegas and Nebraska. Birthday cake and other goodies were served to Tom Green; Lucille Martin; Kathy Green and daughters, Keri and Kourtney; Maxine Green; Neil Rill; Delores Holton; Becky Green; and Mickey Sprague.

The Salvation Army Home League met Tuesday in the salvation Army Hall. Capt. Harriett Colip conducted a Bible study, which was of interest to everyone. She used these Scriptures and had a good discussion on immorality in the workplace.

She cited: Exodus 20:15 about no false testimony. Wail 24 hours to share testimony that may be damaging to others. Joshua 3:3, confront slander with love. Titus 3:2, speak evil of no one. Speak evil of no man. Titus 3:3, pray for ourselves first. No person lies on company time. Zechariah 8:16-17, speak truth. Habakkuk 2:4, no false slander. Don't take company property home as fringe benefits.

Several men and women were planning to go to senior camp at Camp Mihaska for four and half days of Bible Study and fellowship.

Attending the meeting were Elizabeth Griffin, Kim Griffin, Kim Roberson, Norma McAmish, Leisa Griffin, Exie McKeel, Jo Williams, Gladys Freeman, Myrtle Howell, Joyce Moran, Doris Nelson, Vera Lynn, Margie Szerinski, Victoria Alagre, Marie Jaeger, Marie Verbruyck, Celcilia Wright, Christine Deloach, Evelyn Wimberly, Thelma Howard, Josephine Odie, Cleo Slusher, Luzel Scott, Birdie Meyenug, Eelyn Miles, Nona Hull, Mildred Freeze, Mildred Lovejoy, Patty Freeze, Naomi Russell, Lorene Odum, Maxine Rutter, Colip and Nathan Griffin.

So, it's still summer - winter's on the way

Winter brings with it a vast array of weather conditions that create maintenance and other challenges around the house, yard and on your car. To prepare for the harsh realities of cold and snow, there are simple steps you can take to minimize weather damage and maximize your enjoyment of the season.

For those who have to leave their cars outside in the winter, and even those who have the advantage of a garage, the cold weather can cause lots of problems for automobiles. Deterioration of essential vehicle equipment and parts can be prevented with simple household products such as WD-40. A good spray from the blue-and-yellow can will free frozen auto distributor tips and remove moisture on electrical wiring.

During the winter it is also a good idea to spray the entire car door jamb to keep it from freezing and sticking shut. WD-40 also penetrates home and car door seals displacing moisture and preventing freezing. It also works on antennae that are frozen or jammed as well. For those with a garage door opener, regular lubrication during the winter months helps ensure continuous smooth operation.

One of the best uses for WD-40, and one of the most surprising, is how well it works to clean your car. Grease, grime, tar and road salt can build up after just a couple of weeks of winter driving. WD-40 works well to remove these unsightly road hazards without damaging the car's paint finish. Winter weather also increases chances of corrosion and rusting of many household items. You can silence squeaky door hinges and loosen corroded window tracks with a little WD-40. A liberal spray on shovels and snow blowers will prevent snow from sticking, making the chore of clearing the driveway or sidewalk much easier.

If your plans call for going outside for some winter wonderland fun, a spray of WD-40 will lubricate ski boots to stop that annoying squeak while you are walking. It will even remove ski wax that accidentally dripped on your new ski outfit.

To give your sled a faster ride, spray it down with a little WD-40 and use it to remove rust, grease and grime on snow chains. Some mountaineers have even been known to spray WD-40 on their crampons to prevent snow from sticking, easing the upward climb. Prevent problems with items that you have to leave outside for the winter by properly lubricating and coating them to protect against moisture damage so they are ready to enjoy when spring comes around.

It's no secret that news travels faster in this age of the Internet. For that reason, Nick Stoyanoff is looking forward to a lot more business in the coming weeks and months.

Stoyanoff is the manager of the Schnucks store at 2222 Troy Place in Edwardsville. That store, along with one in Swansea, is fulfilling orders for Schnucks Express Connection, the grocery chain's online shopping and delivery service which began last Monday in the Metro East.

Customers can place orders by accessing www.schnucks.com. On the Schnucks home page, click on Schnucks Express Connection and follow the instructions from there. "So far, so good," Stoyanoff said. "The word travels fast. I connected from home Sunday night and the service didn't begin here until Monday morning, and there were already three real good orders."

Residents of 31 cities in 41 ZIP codes throughout the Metro East have gained access to the area's first online grocery shopping service. Stoyanoff said orders coming from Collinsville and anywhere south of the city will be filled by the Swansea Schnucks, while anything north of that is filled in Edwardsville. "We've designated one of our cashiers (Marilyn Beck) as an Internet cashier, and she's in charge of viewing the orders," Stoyanoff said. "Then the people from J.S. Express come in and pick up the orders."

J.S. Express is the delivery service that Schnucks Markets has contracted with. Staff members will wear Schnucks Express Connection shirts for deliveries.

"We make the deliveries twice each day," Stoyanoff said. "The J.S. Express guys come in at 8 each morning and usually have everything loaded up and ready to go. Then they're back here around 4 (p.m.)." Delivery to homes and business are from 10 a.m. to noon and 6 to 8 p.m. Monday through Saturday, Sunday deliveries are made between 4 and 6 p.m.

Stoyanoff said it was too early to detect a trend as to exactly who was more likely to place online orders. "I think the demographics are all over," he said. "A lot of senior citizens will probably take advantage of it. Many of them don't have computers, but I know of at least one senior citizen who was placing orders for himself as well as other people."

Schnucks personnel said their experience matches research that shows three out of four online shoppers are women and most are between 25 and 30 years old.

"The leading category of user are members of two-income households stretched for time," said Larry Maggion, director of marketing services for Schnucks.

The Schnucks Express Connection was first introduced in June 1997 in 82 Missouri ZIP codes. The service has since expanded to Schnucks stores in central Illinois and Indiana. "We are very excited to expand our Express Connection online service to customers in the Metro East," said Scott C. Schnuck, president and chief operating officer of Schnucks. "We wanted to ensure we could provide the same quality of service we have developed on the St. Louis side of the river before we expanded. Our customers love the convenience of shopping from home and we know Metro East customers will appreciate the modifications we have made since introducing the service."

The Metro East Expansion includes more than 187,000 households with a population of nearly 495,000 residents. Same-day delivery is $12.95 and next-day delivery is $9.95.

"Since that price doesn't change, people can order as much as they want at one time," Stoyanoff said. Shoppers can pay with credit card when ordering or by check upon delivery. There are more than 15,000 items in 33 departments available for delivery.

'Fight BAC,' dieticians say

As a result of a new public education campaign called "Fight BAC!" area residents will become increasingly aware of an invisible enemy, bacteria, which may be on their food and hands, or in their kitchens. The Illinois Dietetic Association has joined national industry, government and consumer groups to spread the word that "BAC" is out there but can be stopped through some simple food handling and storage steps.

The Illinois Dietetic Association is urging people to "Fight BAC!" to reduce the risk of foodborne illness, a serious public health problem. Although the exact incidence of foodborne illness in the United States is unknown, the Center for Disease Control and Prevention estimates that as many as 3,000 deaths and between 6.5 million and 10 million illnesses each year are directly linked to food-borne pathogens.

At the same time, food safety experts report that most food-related illness can be reduced. Consumers can protect themselves and their families from getting sick by following some basic rules for handling food safely at home.

Besides introducing people to "BAC" and his devious ways, the "Fight BAC!" campaign will raise public awareness about four steps that consumers can take to keep food safe from harmful bacteria:

Clean
Wash hands, utensils and surfaces with hot, soapy water before and after food preparation, and especially after preparing meat, poultry, eggs or seafood to protect adequately against bacteria. Using a disinfectant cleaner or a mixture of bleach and water on surface and antibacterial soap on hands can provide some added protection.

Separate
Keep raw meat, poultry, eggs and seafood and their juices away from ready-to-eat foods; never place cooked food on an unwashed plate that previously held raw meat, poultry, eggs and seafood.

Cook
Cook food to the proper internal temperature (this varies for different cuts and types of meat and poultry) and check for doneness with a food thermometer. Cook eggs until both the yolk and white are firm.

Chill
Refrigerate or freeze perishables, prepared food and leftovers within two hours and be sure the refrigerator is set at 40 degrees and the freezer is set at 0 degrees.

To communicate these food safety basics, the IDA has joined with more than 100 national organizations as "BAC Fighters" to bring the message of safe food handling to every town and local community.

For more information on food safety, call Rick Parks, registered dietitian and IDA spokesman, at 684-2421; or visit the "Fight BAC!" web site at www.fightbac.org or the IDA's web site at www.eatrightillinois.org.

Greenwald will receive honor

Granite City native to be inducted to Mon-Clair Hall of Fame on Aug. 30

By Rick Broome
Staff writer

Jim Greenwald is going into the Mon-Clair Hall of Fame on Aug. 30 during the league banquet at the Prairie Golf Course in Cahokia.

It will be the culmination of a long and impressive personal baseball history for Greenwald, who is now the assistant principal at Coolidge Middle School.

Greenwald's baseball career began by just messing around in Granite City.

"I guess I started playing when I was 6, in the Granite City Parks District," he said. "I had this desire and love for the game from the very beginning. A typical day would be corkball, stickball, or Indian ball, or hitting rocks and bottle caps with sticks. We'd go down to Sacred Heart or Webster and knock it out."

"I played for the Eagles Lodge for the greater part of my Little League career, all in Granite City Parks; and in ninth grade, played at Coolidge."

"I had a very successful high school career, but I was also playing football and wrestling. My senior year was when I realized that I would be able to play baseball at a higher level."

"In 1970, we won district regionals and sectionals, and I had a hand in driving in or scoring the winning run in all those games."

Greenwald led the St. Louis area in most offensive categories, and his team's 17 consecutive victories is still a Granite City record.

"I learned a lot about baseball from my Legion coach, Babe Champion; and Gale Garbe, who coached at Granite City High," said Greenwald.

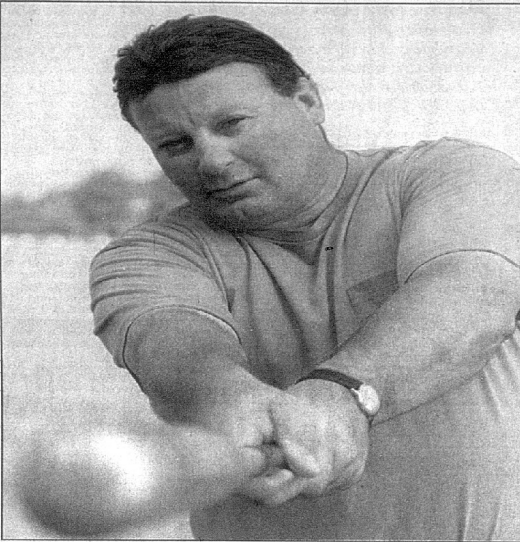

After high school, Greenwald went to Southern Illinois-Edwardsville and played under Roy Lee.

"He was very instrumental in my development as a player," said Greenwald.

In 1974, Greenwald signed a pro contract with the Minnesota Twins organization, and later played for the Phillies minor league team.

"It was a tremendous experience," he said. "I played with and against a lot of great players with both the Twins and Phillies."

"You hear a lot of horror stories about minor league baseball. My first year of pro ball, I was playing with the 'Twins' club in Elizabethtown (N.C.) in the Appalachian League. I

Seets stretches advantage to 14

Roy Walsh won his 10th NASCAR Winston Racing Series modified feature last Saturday, but still trailed John Seets in the points race.

Walsh started in 17th place and moved through the field to finish fifth place by lap No. 5. Walsh took the lead on the 11th lap and held off John Seets, who finished third behind brother Tom Seets.

Rounding out the top five were Terry Boim and Bob Keck.

Seets won the qualifier and ended up stretching his lead over Walsh to 14 points for the season, 1,074 to 1,060. Terry McClintock won his third ShortTrack series title in a row and ninth overall Saturday night. He stretched his lead on defending champion John Dickerman to 84 points.

"I'm going to try to win the whole thing," McClintock said.

Warriors seek return to tradition as a power

Fundamentals will be key in '98

By Rick Broome
Staff writer

Halfway through the first day of practice for the Granite City boys soccer team, Warriors coach Gene Baker calls a halt to the sprints and kick drills and huddles his team around the chalkboard in the soccer bunker that squats just off the side of the field.

Baker is spending the preseason preparing his players for the road back to prominence and title contention.

He stresses three things that his team must concentrate on if they want to be successful: work ethic, defense, and consistent sprinting while away from the ball.

"This is important to remember: Everyone gives and takes commands, and everyone plays defense," he tells them.

Baker's teams have long been known for their emphasis on fundamentally sound play. Baker says that this year's squad needs to erase the basic mistakes of recent Granite City teams.

"The big thing we want to work on is becoming a good day-to-day soccer team," said Baker. "We need to prepare well every day. Teams never win with too many defensive deficiencies."

"The boys have come here in reasonably good condition. I think they've displayed a good attitude. The first practice was a good one."

"We aren't going to be a physically imposing team, but we have some strength. We could show some real speed if we work hard."

"We should be able to score against good teams. The key to our success will be defending against good teams."

"The kids are making great use of the facilities we've provided them with, especially the weightlifting. We're improving, or trying to improve, on our fundamentals. Granite City has always had a reputation for having the most disciplined team in the state. We need to resurface as that kind of team."

Several of the players have played important roles for the team before.

"We're looking at Corey Winfield, Josh Peacher and Andy Ronk to create scoring threats. Mike Smith is only going to be a sophomore but he has the potential to score, as does David Margrave. Ian Kessel has a strong left foot and Jared MacMillan is in the best shape of his life. Andrew Crider is just a freshman working out with the varsity, but he shows good speed and poise. He has advanced skills for his level."

"Unfortunately, we lost Justin Roehr to a knee injury. He would have been our starting keeper. Branden Williams is going to take his place, and he can give us strong senior leadership."

Brad Hutchings, Steve Hendrickson and Justin Stone have also seen significant playing time, and should help lead this predominantly young team.

"The question mark is the backfield," said Baker. "Bob Scott is new, after just playing his freshman year. But he is a gifted athlete, and he brings us that competitive edge we need."

The schedule provides plenty of land mines that will test Granite's mettle.

"The opener's always tough," said Baker. "Being on the road is very difficult and Peoria is always ready to play. We're playing in August, which means it will be extremely hot. Our conference has a great reputation, and our non-conference schedule is excellent; we're looking at games against SLUH, O'Fallon, both of the Howells (Howell and Howell North from St. Charles, Mo., County), Springfield, (St. Louis) Vianney and (St. Louis) CBC. I would like to see us form a very disciplined mentality as a result of the schedule."

Of course, one of the highlights of the season is the Tournament of Champions. I think it's a more than adequate preparation for the playoffs. The competition is keener in both as a result.

In addition to the ordinary pressures of improving on last year's record, this is Granite City's 30th

Tri-City introduces Charger Series

By Jim Wieners
Correspondent

Tri-City Speedway introduced the Charger Series this summer to race fans who wanted to race but could not afford to get involved.

The Charger Series cars, which commenced racing in July, are for entry-level racers in full-frame pure-stock sedans. They have no racing equipment, roll cages and a five-point seat belt and safety harness. All flammable equipment is removed, the battery is placed in the trunk and a fuel cell replaces a fuel tank.

The first race on July 25 had six cars; week two, Aug. 1, had five cars; and eight raced in week three on Aug. 8.

The Charger Series cars are similar to the Bomber Cars that race at Highland and Belle-Clair Speedways. Highland was first to run Bombers and Belle-Clair started racing them last year. Sam Castiller won the Bomber points titles at both tracks last year.

One driver has taken advantage of the Tri-City Speedway's Charger Series is "Bronco" Billy Molkenbur. A Highland resident, Molkenbur could have very easily run in the Bomber class at his hometown speedway on Saturday nights. However, Molkenbur chose to race weekends at Tri-City because he loves the track (the quarter-mile inside the half-mile).

"Everybody here (at Tri-City) is super," Molkenbur said. "It's the best facility I've raced."

It was the last week of June that Molkenbur received a call from Tri-City owner/promoter Bob Wente.

Molkenbur had posted three wins in three feature races prior to Aug. 15, when he finished second.

Molkenbur, leading in points (170) heading into this past weekend, had Dave Hearty as his top competitor after the first two weeks. But Hearty was not in attendance last weekend.

On Aug. 8, Don Williams took over second place in points. Williams (146), Mark Mathenia (142) and Ron McAntire (138) were 10 points apart. Hearty dropped to fifth in points (110).

Molkenbur is not only winning Charger Series races but he also builds cars for those who want to enter the series. "I have the equipment to build and sell (Charger Series cars)," he said.

The Tri-City Charger Series will run every week on the quarter-mile track until the season-ending championships, Sept. 12. In addition, Tri-City runs the Mountain Dew Street Stocks and Quaker State Sportsmen (Modified cars) on the quarter-mile while the NASCAR Winston Racing Series Modifieds and Budweiser Pro Stocks run on the half-mile.

Greenwald

experienced a lot of long bus rides through places like Johnson City and Kingston, Tenn. We were getting $6 a day for meal money. My take-home pay for a week was $198.50.

"I wouldn't trade it for anything."

When he came back to the Metro East in 1976, Greenwald had something of a fourth career of semi-pro ball. He got this round started off with a bang.

"I played for the late Wendell Corey, who managed a team for Mercer Funeral Homes in the Inner City League," said Greenwald. "The first year after I came back from the minors, 1976, I won the triple crown in the Inner City League."

"When we left Mercer, my old coach at SIUE, Roy Lee, formed the Edwardsville Civics, and we were a semi-pro power-house in the Metro East for four years (1978-82). We made three trips to the National Baseball Congress, an organization made up of ex-pros and former college players. It was like getting an extra pro league with Coach Lee, which was great."

Greenwald had met one of this year's other Hall inductees, current Saint Louis University baseball coach Bob Hughes, in 1974, and he brought him along, first to Mercer's and then to Edwardsville.

"We've been great friends since we met," said Greenwald.

"In 1982, I was 29 and Bob was 32. The general manager of the Edwardsville Civics wanted to go with younger players, so he told Bob and me that he couldn't use

"One of my highlights was the 1987 (Mon-Clair) championship game against Waterloo. I hit three consecutive home runs off of T.J. Matthews, who's with the Oakland A's now."

our services. He really thought that, at our age, we wouldn't be able to help him out. "So in 1983, for one year only, Bob and I got picked up by the St. Louis Browns. We were the two elder statesmen on a team of mostly college kids. One of the pitchers we faced was Mike Henneman, who went on to play for the Detroit Tigers. We won the Missouri NBC championship that year. In the title game, against Edwardsville — the team who couldn't use us — I went 5-for-5, and 19-for-21 in the tournament overall. We ended up seventh in the national tournament at Wichita."

The 19 hits are still a state NBC record for a series by one player. "The Edwardsville situation, not picking us up, was a no-hard-feelings kind of thing," says Greenwald. "It was kind of like free agency or being traded in the major. I was 29 at the time, and went on to have eight or nine more years of baseball. But there was some added incentive to beat them in that title game, just because they were our former team."

In 1984, Greenwald went to work for Rich Sauter in his various businesses. "Sauter, Hughes and I, prior to the '84 season, went to work on getting Sauter a Mon-Clair team," said Greenwald. "Rich built the field for our team to play on."

During his stay with Sauter, Greenwald won two Mon-Clair championships, in 1988 and '89; went to the Mon-Clair all-star game seven times, and in two of those was the all-star game MVP. In 1988, he had six consecutive doubleheaders with multiple home runs.

"One of my highlights was the 1987 championship game against Waterloo," said Greenwald. "I hit three consecutive home runs off of T.J. Matthews, who's with the Oakland A's now. I had hit one in my last at bat the previous game, so I actually had four in a row."

Greenwald hung up his spikes in 1991, but seems to be handling the absence of his lifelong love pretty well.

"I played for a long time, and quit when I did because I had double knee surgery," he said. "But I'm still around the game. I've been a scout for the Rangers for three years, and before that scout-ed for the Cubs. My job as an assistant principal (at Coolidge Middle School) keeps me busy, even during the summer. "I'm enjoying watching the games now and just being a fan."

anniversary of high school soccer. The logo for the season reads "Granite '88," and the team wants to do well to reflect the success the area has had in Illinois competition.

"I think you see the significance of soccer all around this school," said Baker. "You can see it in this building we put up. There is an atmosphere at our field for our home games that is, I think, unique in the area, that nobody else can top. The fact that we gave them a notebook to maintain for the season says something about our attitude toward soccer."

"Plaques and trophies from numerous victories are plastered all around the soccer bunker."

"Soccer is not a matter of life or death (in Granite City) — it's more important than that."

He also ranks second in the NASCAR Winston ShortTrack Series Mid-America region.

On Saturday, McClintock started in fourth and took the lead on lap nine. He outduelled runner-up Bub Smith, third-placer Paul Schrempf, fourth-placer David Bardin and fifth-placer finisher Rick Rhoades. Dickerman ran out of gas with less than five laps to go.

B.J. Seets won his fifth Mountain Dew Street Stock feature, topping Josh Carroll and Wade Glover. Seets stretched his point lead on Rick Squires, who finished 12th, to 84 points.

Seets trailed Chris Simmerman by nearly half a lap before Simmerman had to drop out on lap 16 with mechanical difficulties.

Terry James won the Quaker State Sportsman main, beating Rick L. Stevenson and Tim Barrett. Gary Hall was also involved in the battle for first. James stretched his lead to 74 over Joe Dresch, who finished sixth.

Scott Rainey won his first Tri-City Chargers feature, ending the win streak of Billy Molkenbur (see story on Page 1B). Molkenbur, who had won the first three feature races, won the heat race before finishing second to Rainey.

Molkenbur has chalked up 228 points in four races. Mark Methania, who finished third behind Rainey and Molkenbur, is second in points. Saturday is Dobbs Tire Night at Tri-City. Cost is $9 for adults, $5 for students ages 11-17 and $2 for children 10-and-under.

Remaining key nights on the Tri-City schedule are: The Pepsi Legends Cars Series on Aug. 29; the Legends Cars Clay Nationals, closing out the season Oct. 9-10; the Border Wars Demo Derby on Sept. 26; and Monster Truck Mania V on Oct. 3.

Elks hold annual convention

The Benevolent and Protective Order of Elks visited the home of Disneyland recently to craft their own version of "Tomorrowland," a place where volunteerism and leadership build stronger communities and a stronger nation.

The Elks, whose latest national convention was the 134th in its history, was represented locally by Granite City Elks Lodge Number 1063, whose exalted ruler or lodge president, is Kenneth Shipp of Granite City.

Local representatives attended the Anaheim convention to help shape the programs and policies of the national order, which currently boasts more than 1.2 million members nationwide.

The Elks have a long tradition of philanthropic service, sponsoring youth athletic and drug education programs, aid for people with disabilities, college scholarships, cancer and transplant research and veterans' service programs.

The Elks have also made significant commitments to America's Promise, an organization committed to providing fundamental resources to our nation's youth.

Among the highlights of the convention were speeches by the two winners of the Elks national free throw competition — Adam James Morgan, 13, of Cumberland, Md., and Mary Hall McArver, 13, of Gastonia, N.C. They were the best of the more than three million kids, ages 8 to 13, who participated in this year's competition.

They were followed to the podium by Ellen Johnson of Dixie, Utah, and John-than Taliaferro of El Dorado, Kan., the top two winners in the Elks National Foundation's Most Valuable Student scholarship contest. Each will receive a four-year scholarship worth $20,000.

Throughout the convention, the 2,200 local lodges were hailed for their support of the order's national programs, as well as for their own local programs.

They also were encouraged to deepen their commitment to those in need. "Our goal this year is to promote volunteerism and leadership," said C. Valentine Bates, who was elected national president during the convention. "As volunteers and leaders, we will pursue and fulfill our lofty goals while continuing our proud traditions."

Around the Area

Here's what happened around the Metro East in the past week:

East St. Louis

Board sued over MCC takeover

Metropolitan Community College is suing the Illinois Community College Board for appointing a chief administrative officer to take over daily operations at the college.

The lawsuit, filed Wednesday in St. Clair County Circuit Court, states that the ICCB overstepped its legal authority when it rejected MCC's administrative appointments July 30.

The ICCB-appointed emergency financial task force rejected the appointment of Terry Lewis as acting president, Frank Nave as acting dean and Surinder Sabharwal as acting associate dean of Institutional Development Services.

In place of the appointments, the task force's chair, Don Wilske, was to contract for the services of a chief administrative officer to perform administrative duties. Included would be evaluating personnel, allocating resources and organizing staff.

The ICCB formed the task force in May because the college was seven months late on a mandatory annual audit and because the school misreported enrollment, costing about $700,000 in state aid for the upcoming school year.

The lawsuit states that the law allowing the task force's establishment applies to financial rather than administrative oversight.

The lawsuit also charges that the ICCB expanded the law by appointing the chief administrative officer.

Bush: Stopping hotel project would cost city

Stopping a controversial hotel project could cost East St. Louis millions of dollars, Mayor Gordon Bush said.

Residents and business owners have said the Saask Corp.'s plan to open a hotel in the former Southern Illinois Bank Building at 10th Street and Martin Luther King Drive will result in prostitution and drug activity.

Company representatives have denied opponents' claims that the hotel will charge by the hour.

Bush said the company's president, Amrut Patel, kept his word not to run an hourly operation at the hotel the company opened on State Street just east of Interstate 255 last summer.

Columbia

School tightens policy

Athletes, band members, cheerleaders and others at Columbia High School will have to remain academically at least at a minimum degree — or sit on the sidelines.

Under a policy approved unanimously by the school board for the coming academic year, all students participating in extra-curricular activities must pass five classes every week with at least a D average — 1.0 on the new 4.0 grade scale.

School Board President Diana King admitted that the new policy will not raise the standards much.

The school previously followed the requirements set by the Illinois High School Association, which regulates high school athletics. The IHSA requires students pass only four classes in order to play and allows a lower-than-D average.

Shiloh

Thouvenot dig uncovers 'find'

A "significant archaeological find" has been discovered at the proposed Thouvenot Lane road extension near Shiloh. Twenty-two houses and quite a few pits, which are all believed to date back to the Mississippian era, have been discovered, said Don Booth, a site supervisor with the Illinois Transportation Archaeological Research Program.

The Mississippian era occurred between 1000-1400 A.D. Cahokia Mounds in Collinsville, which also has Mississippian era sites, reached its peak development around 1300-1400 A.D., said Mera Hertel, an archaeological assistant with ITARP.

Broken pots and bones could be found at the Shiloh site, Booth said. ITARP has already recovered one broken hoe flake, he noted.

The early findings are considered significant because it shows that the Mississippi Indians migrated from the American Water Bottoms, Hertel said.

Booth said he hopes the excavation — which should be complete by October or November — will provide some explanation as to why the migration took place.

Fairview Heights

Salute to Masters Aug. 29-30

The eleventh annual Midwest Salute to the Masters Art Festival will be held Aug. 29-30 at Longshore Park.

In addition to 100 artists displaying and discussing their work, entertainment will be provided for people of all ages.

The event will kick off with a preview party Aug. 28, prior to the show's public opening. The party, which is held by invitation only, will give a sneak preview to salute supporters. Invitations will be sent to those who purchase art before the event begins. For more information, call Linda Farley at Hoelscher Engineering at 624-8610.

The festival is free to the public. Hours are 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. Saturday and 11 a.m. to 5 p.m. on Sunday.

O'Fallon

Teachers, board to meet mediator

In an effort to settle the ongoing contract dispute, the Central District 104 school board and teachers are scheduled to meet with a federal mediator Monday.

Last week, the teachers filed a 10-day intent to strike notice with the Illinois Educational Labor Relations Board. If an agreement is not reached, the teachers could go on strike Thursday, which is the first day of school, teacher spokesman Dawn Elser said.

The school board briefly discussed the negotiations at its Monday meeting. Superintendent Joe Arthur said. The board agreed to adjourn the meeting until Monday because they are optimistic a deal will be reached, he said.

But the board did not participate in that federal mediation session, Arthur said. If an agreement is reached, the board could hold a special meeting to vote on the contract.

Cahokia

Voluntary school uniforms OK'd

The Cahokia Board of Education has approved a voluntary uniform policy for the district's seven elementary schools.

With school board President Charlene White absent, the board voted unanimously Monday to approve the uniform policy for kindergarten through sixth grade students after an hour and 40 minutes in closed session.

Students will wear a white or light-blue top with a dark-blue bottom. The shirts must have collars and cannot have logos. Short-sleeved shirts are acceptable in the warm months. The policy does not include shoes.

Ask The EXPERTS

Q: Is it to my advantage to shop for funeral prices?

A: Yes, Definitely. The Federal Trade Commission requires that all funeral directors provide to the consumer a general price list, outlining the cost for services. Most funeral homes have packages for different types of services, i.e. Traditional, direct, Cremation and Anatomical Donation. It is important that the consumer know that the type of service they are paying for includes all items necessary, such as: register book, prayer cards, hardcover/barber, etc. A package should include these services and/or items necessary to encompass a funeral from the moment the death occurs to the filing of the final insurance papers. A smart consumer chooses before need so logic overrules emotion.

Q: Is a Credit Union a Bank?

A: A Credit Union is not a bank and never has been. A Credit Union has no profit motive, stockholders or customers. Just member-owners who pool their savings to make low-cost loans to each other. Without Credit Unions—Bank fees, loan rates and bank profits would be higher. Take advantage of your opportunity to belong to a not-for-profit Financial Cooperative by joining PICCU today!

Q: Should I vaccinate my indoor pet?

A: Indoor pets are not safe from disease. Viruses and bacteria can be airborne or carried on clothes and shoes. The indoor pet has no immunity and exposure can lead to certain illness and even death. Your dog should be vaccinated yearly for Distemper, Hepatitis, Leptospirosis, Parvovirus, Adenovirus, and Coronavirus. Your dog is required by law to be vaccinated for Rabies. Your cat should be vaccinated yearly for Panleukopenia, Rhinotracheitis, Calicivirus, Chlamydia, Leukemia, and Rabies. Call your veterinarian today if your pet is not protected!

Bands, games at SIUE

By Paul Mackie
Staff writer

Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville officials hope "Welcome Week" will help thousands of freshmen and returning students make a smooth adjustment into a new year of higher education.

School begins Monday, with weekend classes starting Aug. 29. Welcome Week, from Monday through Friday, Aug. 28, is intended to involve more students in campus life.

Students are invited, beginning Monday, to explore campus organizations and other university groups at information booths in the Goshen Lounge of the Morris University Center.

LiveWire Band will perform in the William G. Stratton Quadrangle from 11:30 a.m. to 1 p.m. Wednesday, Aug. 26.

"There will be bands, games and the annual rappelling down the library," Keith Nichols, director of University News Services.

"Fraternities, sororities and student leadership groups will also be on the quad."

A Merchant's Fair will be from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. Thursday, Aug. 27, in the Morris Center.

'Dance With Me' emphasizes romance

Vanessa Williams stars in look at world of dance

"I'm Latin, but I've never seen a Latin dance like that," Ruby tells Raphael, setting the stage for the latest celluloid excursion into the world of dance in Columbia Pictures' latest release, "Dance With Me."

When a handsome young Cuban name Rafael (Chayanne) arrives in Houston, his passion for life and flair for Latin dance immediately breathe new energy into the faded Excelsior Dance Studio.

There, he meets Ruby (Vanessa Williams), a determined dance instructor who is looking for a chance to re-enter the ranks of professional dance with a new partner.

Before long, the amateur is teaching the professional how to loosen up her disciplined style and feel the music.

Afraid of what Raphael's honesty and sensuality stir in her heart, Ruby heads for the World Open Dance Championships in Las Vegas with her sleazy former partner. But Raphael is hot on her heels, and in Vegas the romance between Raphael and Ruby blooms.

Ultimately, Ruby learns what others have known all along: sometime the most important thing to follow isn't a partner, but her heart.

"Dance With Me" opens Friday throughout the country. "Dance With Me" also stars Kris Kristofferson and Joan Plowright, and is a Columbia Pictures release. It is directed by Randa Haines.

'Blade' is stylish, not too original

By Ronnie Roy
Staff writer

"Blade" is a stylish, bloody, humorless, violent, formula action-thriller.

In other words, it should do well with its target audience of young men, but probably won't draw blood with mainstream audiences.

Wesley Snipes stars as Blade, an obscure Marvel Comics character created in the '70s for its "Tomb of Dracula" series. The film opens with a pregnant woman being wheeled into an emergency room, blood gushing from two holes in her throat. The woman dies, but the child survives, mutated by the encounter.

The child — of course — is Blade, who has all the advantages of a vampire (increased strength and speed) but none of the disadvantages (he can live in sunlight, he doesn't fear garlic or holy water). He's still cursed with a thirst for human blood, but he controls it by taking a special serum.

After the birth scene, the film fast-forwards to the present with an opening sequence that sets the pace for the rest of the film. An unsuspecting human is taken to a secret dance club. As the water sprinklers begin spewing blood over the dancing bodies, it's obvious this poor man is in a vampire disco.

He struggles to escape as the crowd grabs at him, but they soon recoil in fear at the sudden appearance of Blade. Realizing he's seriously outnumbered, several vampires attack only to be blown apart by big guns that fire silver spikes or sliced to pieces by Blade's blades. (I always thought silver was for werewolves, but apparently whoever tells vampire tales gets to make the rules these days.)

In one scene, a vampire is able to appear in a park in daylight simply by applying some sunblock.)

After killing a dozen vampires and frightening the others away, Blade inexplicably (except to keep the plot moving) impales longtime foe Quinn (Donal Logue) to the wall and sets him on fire instead of simply killing him like all the others.

Blade disappears as the police arrive. The charbroiled body of Quinn is taken to the hospital, where beautiful hematologist Karen Jensen (N'bushe Wright) is called in to examine the body.

The body leaps from the slab and attacks Jensen, and once again Blade suddenly appears. After a brief fight, Quinn escapes and Blade takes the wounded Jensen back to his lair.

Now, every vampire slayer needs a mentor, and since Giles was busy with Buffy, Wesley Snipes in a scene from the New Line Cinema film, "Blade." The movie opens Friday.

"Blade" faithfully follows the formula of other dark, violent hero films like "The Crow" or "Spawn." The men speak in guttural, monosyllables. The women prove they're as violent as the men.

Blade gets a grizzled old man named Abraham Whistler (Kris Kristofferson). Whistler has been waging war against vampires since his family was killed by one years ago. It was he who found the young Blade and recruited him for battle. Blade was easy to convince; he wants revenge on the vampire who killed his mother and made him the man he is today.

Meanwhile, Quinn has reported back in with his boss, the true villain of the film, young vampire overlord Deacon Frost (Stephen Dorff). Frost upsets the older, pureblood vampires with his flamboyant ways.

Frost doesn't care what the oldtimers think, he's too busy trying to crack an ancient code that will call up the vampire god that will rule the world.

"Blade" faithfully follows the formula of other dark, violent hero films like "The Crow" or "Spawn." The men speak in guttural, monosyllables. The women prove they're as violent as the men.

There are several well-choreographed fight scenes, a mystic ceremony with big special effects (although most of the effects budget seems to be spent on finding different ways to make vampires blow up), and the promise of a sequel.

"Blade," a New Line Cinema film, is directed by Stephen Norrington and produced by Peter Frankfurt, Wesley Snipes and Robert Engelman.

Nashville's Fall Festival is 3-day affair

This year's Nashville (Ill.) Fall Festival has been expanded into a full three-day weekend event with more entertainment on tap.

Along with the usual variety of more than 100 vendors of handmade crafts it will feature its first-ever 3-on-3 basketball tournament.

Running between Friday and Sunday, Sept. 25-27, the festival will have its activities across the lawn and on the side streets around the Washington County Courthouse downtown.

The 3-on-3 tournament will be held at Nashville High School with any overflow at the neighboring Nashville Middle School.

The Masonic Lodge will serve its annual fried chicken dinner at the American Legion Home on Sunday between 11 a.m. and 2 p.m. at Memorial Park.

A community Big Blue Pep Rally in support of the Nashville Hornets football team, which plays Friday night, will be held earlier in the day at the main stage behind the courthouse downtown. The Pep Band and the Nashville cheerleaders will participate.

Children again will get a chance to bring their pets to the annual Pet Parade through downtown at 9 a.m. Saturday. Each child gets a ribbon and awards will also be handed out. Following the Pet Parade, Coloring Contest Winners will be announced.

Appearing at the main stage over the weekend will be Fydlstyx and BJ Butch Wilkey on Friday, Red Line and Night Hawk on Saturday, and the Washington County Youth Choir, Sister Act from Zion Hoyleton Church and Jesse's Barn Gang playing bluegrass Sunday.

Other weekend entertainment includes a fall fashion show featuring merchandise provided by local businesses and a Lip Sync contest, both on Saturday, along with Sunday's Kiddie Tractor Pull.

The Nashville Chamber of Commerce has a 50-50 raffle with half the money from tickets providing for three cash prizes.

The popular DARE dunking booth will be set up and plenty of food booths will be available near the main stage with seating provided. Breakfast will be served each morning at the tent set up in front of the chamber offices.

Craft booths are still available. For information, call Cheryl Zapp at 327-3700.

Cage defies image

Winning an Academy Award in an arty, esoteric independent film didn't give Nicolas Cage a swelled head.

"Actors can get high on their own importance and snob themselves out of the business," Cage said in a recent New York Daily News.

"That's why I decided to go into movies that were perhaps more escapist entertainment. Which is what I've always done: go as far as I can in the opposite direction of what I've just accomplished."

After winning the best actor Oscar for "Leaving Las Vegas," the story of a suicidal drunk, Cage made mainstream action films with big-time costars in "The Rock" (Sean Connery), "Con Air" (John Malkovich), "Face/Off" (John Travolta), and the love story "City of Angels" with Meg Ryan.

Now Cage appears in the mainstream action-thriller "Snake Eyes."

"When I started acting, I was much more of an anarchist," Cage said. "I was only interested in doing kind of punk rock, alternative expressions, and I neglected another side of the industry. Then I became aware that I was about to intense or weird myself right out of the business, and that I had to find some balance."

CALENDAR OF EVENTS

Community

A MUSCULAR DYSTROPHY BARBECUE is scheduled for 11:30 a.m. to 5 p.m. Sunday at Good Shepherd United Methodist Church, 3025 National Ave. in Granite City. Come down and help the letter carriers of Granite City "cook up a cure" in support of MS research. The menu includes pork steaks or two bratwursts, potato salad, baked beans and a drink. Cost is $5.

ST. MARY'S CHURCH in Madison is holding its 68th Annual Picnic on Aug. 28-30 at 10th and Lee streets. There will be food, booths, refreshments, games, carnival rides, cash prizes, music and dancing.

The schedule includes: Friday — grounds open 5 to 11 p.m., with a fish fry starting at noon and music by the Dave Hyla Band from 7 to 11 p.m.

Saturday — grounds open from 3 to 11 p.m., with barbecue pork steaks starting at noon, plus music by the Dave Hyla Band 7 to 11 p.m.

Sunday — grounds open noon to 10 p.m., with chicken dinners served in the air-conditioned hall 11:30 a.m. to 5 p.m., and music from 6 to 10 p.m. by the Dynamics Band. Costs for the chicken dinner are adults, $8; children 6-12, $3 and children under 5 free.

Music/Concerts

The GRANITE CITY COMMUNITY BAND begins its 12th season Aug. 27 with its second annual sight-reading concert. The concert begins at 7:30 p.m. at the Centennial Pavilion in Wilson Park.

Conductor Butch Mestemacher and band members invite anyone who has played a band instrument to participate in the concert. No one is too rusty or busy to play, Mestemacher says, as many current members once thought that way and are rehearsing now.

The band will not rehearse for this concert, and most of the members and visiting musicians will be playing the musical selections for the first time.

Selections for the program will be "Rio Bravo" by John Edmundson; "American Heritage Overture" by James Ployhar; "Highlights from Gypsy" arranged by Paul Yoder; "Kartoon Kaleidoscope" arranged by Paul Lavender; "Star-Spangled Spectacular" arranged by John Cacavas; "Big Band Bash" arranged by Bob Louden; "Aerostar March" by Eric Osterling; "Military Escort" by Harold Bennett and "Rock, My Soul" by Eric Osterling.

Musicians who participate should bring their instrument and a music stand.

The public is invited and there is no charge for admission.

For more information about the band or the sight-reading concert, call Linda at 931-0443 or Butch at 345-2075.

Drummer STAN FORNASZEWSKI AND HIS BIG BAND presents the "Best of Big Bands and Beyond." Concerts are free and open to the public, and are held starting at 7:30 p.m. at Wilson Park.

The last concert is set for tonight, Aug. 20.

Stars shine at 'Planet' opening

By Clayton Berry
Staff writer

The experience can only be equated with the wait for a shooting star: hours of anticipation produces fleeting sightings at best.

But that was reward enough for an estimated 40,000 screaming fans who waited hours for big-name celebrities to stroll the red carpet at Monday's grand opening of Planet Hollywood on Laclede's Landing.

Toting cameras and pens for autographs, the masses crammed into Laclede's Landing to catch a glimpse of superstars like Bruce Willis, a founding partner in the themed restaurant chain. Willis and his band, the Accelerators, livened the crowds with tunes.

James Caan and Melanie Griffith, part owners in the chain, brought a dignified glamour to the festivities while young Turks Luke Perry and Billy Baldwin generated squeals from droves of anxious teen-age girls. "Baywatch" beauty Yasmine Bleeth and country songstress Deana Carter sauntered along the lengthy procession as well.

For many in attendance it was an experience of a lifetime. Oakville's Jose Mendez, 23, scored a media pass as a photographer for the Meramec Community College newspaper, "Montage."

"This is awesome," he beamed, fighting for room with the journalist shuttersbugs staking out prime angles. Local star power rivaled Hollywood's as a cavalcade of St. Louis area greats soaked in the crowd's cheers. Rock and roll giant Chuck Berry revved the crowd with his rocking prowess. Baseball legend Stan Musial strolled the carpet, quietly smiling and passing out laminated baseball cards.

Track phenom Jackie Joyner-Kersey, when asked which star she came to see, pointed to the crowds.

Baseball announcer Jack Buck roused the legions with a potential play-by-play of Mark McGwire's 62nd homer and Blues standouts Chris Pronger and Kelly Chase taunted Blackhawk fans watching the action via live satellite at the Chicago Planet Hollywood.

Not all comedies are funny Trivia

By Kevin Carbery
Correspondent

I would like to know why critics thought "There's Something About Mary" was hilarious, but "BASEketball" was disgusting.

I enjoyed seeing both comedies. The summer releases both are crude and silly, yet "There's Something About Mary" has received much better treatment from the press.

This brings me to this week's topic, which is what I think is funny. I will laugh at a wide range of comedy, but not everything tickles me.

From television, my favorite sitcoms of all time are "Green Acres" and "Seinfeld." You would have to admit that those two programs represent a pretty wide spectrum of humor. What I do not enjoy are sitcoms that rely heavily on child actors. My vote for worst situation comedy ever is "Full House." Bob Saget and David Coulier may be the two unfunniest people on the planet.

As far as stand-up comedians, my favorite is Richard Pryor, yet, I also enjoy Bob Newhart's albums. Among the newer comics, Chris Rock and Wendy Liebman make me laugh. On the other hand, I never liked Joan Rivers and Carrot Top gets nothing but a blank stare from me.

In film comedy, my two favorites are "Monty Python and the Holy Grail" and "It's a Gift," the W.C. Fields classic. As to the worst movie comedy ever, it is a tough choice, but I am going to go with "Harlem Nights," a major disappointment.

The questions for this week's trivia quiz all concern humor.

1. What is the longest-running sitcom in TV history?
2. Who was the only actor to appear in both the movie and TV versions of "M*A*S*H"?
3. Burt Kwouk appeared in several movies with Peter (See TRIVIA, Page 10D)

Bird walks slated at Carlyle

The Carlyle Lake Audubon Society has scheduled two bird walks.

Residents interested in taking part in a bird walk should meet at 7 a.m. Aug. 29 at Carlyle McDonald's (U.S. 50 and Illinois 127). The destination will depend on water conditions at Carlyle Lake and hot line reports. Participants should bring binoculars, field guides and a spotting scope, if available. Snacks and beverages are recommended; a lunch stop will be made at a local fast food restaurant.

Members and guests also will participate in an Illinois Ornithological Society bird walk in the Carlyle Lake area Sept. 26. Participants should meet at 7 a.m. at Carlyle McDonald's and bring binoculars, field guides and a spotting scope, if available. Snacks and drinks are suggested.

•Horoscope

something of a surprise, but you should have sensed the interest.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 21). Routine chores go faster than usual, but you'll find more. You're in mood to work, not play. Be the good example for family, especially in teaching how to handle money. Socialize tonight.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21). Some new ways of doing things spice up the old traditions; everyone's ready for a different idea. Big stuff gets done one step at a time. Give yourself plenty of time to complete each step.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19). Solid confidence of others will give you the courage to enter a new territory of accomplishment. Not all of us can put everything off and then catch up neatly at the last minute, but you can and do.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18). Those who count are on your side. The care and repair of possessions occupies your time. Evening hours bring news that family members you feared would miss out will be there after all.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20). Harmony reigns. You are busy helping wherever you can. Don't be openly critical - teach by example, rather than by preaching. A partner is able to clearly communicate needs and desires now.

Egyptian culture on display

By Christina Christodoulou
Staff writer

People can experience Egyptian culture this weekend at a special event in Maryland Heights.

The fourth annual Egyptian Festival, at St. Mary and St. Abraam Church, 1843 Ross Ave., is scheduled for 11 a.m. to 8 p.m. Saturday and 11 a.m. to 6 p.m. Sunday.

"The annual Egyptian Festival is held to provide an opportunity for the public to acquaint themselves with the Egyptian history, heritage, culture and faith," said Nahed Haddad, youth counselor at the church and one of the organizers of the festival.

Video and slide presentations also will be shown to teach about the history and culture of Egypt. Homemade foods and desserts will be available.

•Trivia

- Sellers as what character?
- In the movie "Bringing Up Baby," what is Baby?
- George Carlin was the host of the first episode of "Saturday Night Live" in 1975. Who hosted the second episode of the program?
- "I get no respect" is which comedian's catch phrase?
- Humor writer Dave Barry bases many of his columns on the city where he lives. Which city is it?
- What kind of creature dies of a heart attack in "National Lampoon's Animal House"?
- Honey the Clown was a character on what variety show on television?
- Which comic actor plays Dustin Hoffman's roommate in "Tootsie"?

Answers: 1. Surprisingly, it is "The Adventures of Ozzie & Harriet," which lasted for 14 years. 2. Gary Burghoff as Radar. 3. Cato, manservant to Inspector Clouseau. 4. A leopard. 5. Singer Paul Simon. I saw this on a recent "Pop-Up Video." What a great show. 6. Rodney Dangerfield. 7. Miami, Fla. 8. A horse. 9. "In Living Color." 10. Bill Murray, who is unbuffed in the credits, but who steals all of his scenes.

Kevin Carbery can be heard as a regular on "The Trivia Coast-To-Coast Show" from 8 to 11 p.m. Sundays on Radio KMOX-AM (1120)

Parrot Club Show and Fair is this weekend

By Barbara Ponder
Staff writer

Mickey greets some visitors with a raspy "hi." Others might rate a wolf-whistle.

When Mickey wants something, he cries out for "pawpaw."

"Mickey has a vocabulary of probably about eight or nine words," said Ken Schwab, owner of the lilac crown Amazon parrot.

"He says 'pawpaw,' which is what my granddaughter calls me. She calls me that quite often, so apparently he thinks that's some key word to getting what he wants," Schwab, of Vinita Park, is a member of the Gateway Parrot Club. The group is holding its eighth annual All American Parrot Show and Fair from 10 a.m. until 8 p.m. Saturday and from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. Sunday at the Saint Charles Expo Center, Mark Twain Mall, Fifth Street at Interstate 70.

The entrance fee to the show is $3 for anyone over age 10 with proceeds benefiting avian research. About 4,500 people attended last year's show.

In addition to the Saturday's bird show, which attracts competitors nationwide, the event features vendors and breeders.

"There will be hundreds and hundreds of birds for sale, everything ranging from babies to adults that are suitable for breeding," Schwab said.

Schwab is a former breeder. He thinned his flock to just Mickey because of space and time constraints.

"With this guy, I see him in the evening and play with him a little bit," Schwab said. "But with the birds you use for breeding, you have to go in there every hour or so to check on various things."

Schwab, who joined Gateway Parrot about nine years ago, has been an animal photographer since 1977 and maintains a large inventory of animal photographs. He generally photographs the animals for their owners in return for permission to market the picture.

His work is published in a variety of magazines, particularly those catering to animal fanciers, and is used in advertising as well. The National Dog Biscuit box features Schwab's photograph of a West Highland white terrier.

Schwab is proud of Gateway

Parrot's contributions to avian research and its bird rescue service.

"Some (birds) are biters, and people don't know what to do with them," Schwab said. "We've had cases where we had to pick up 20 or 30 birds because the owner died."

Carol Fields of Jennings, the club's president, keeps rescued birds temporarily while looking for suitable and carefully screened homes.

People are attracted to birds as pets for a variety of reasons, Schwab said. Many apartment complexes allow birds but do not allow dogs and cats. Additionally, larger birds have a long life expectancy.

"Usually, if you have a large bird, you'd better put that bird in your will because he's probably going to outlive you," Schwab said.

Bird prices and sizes vary "anywhere from $5 to $2,500," and "from one that will fit in a matchbox all the way up to the Macaws, which are the biggest of the species," Schwab said.

Fields recommends that children be 7 or 8 years old before getting a bird.

Cockatiels, which generally run between $100 and $150, are "great first-time birds" because the breed is sweet and gentle, she said.

"They can talk and they're good with kids," Fields said. Schwab said bird owners sometimes buy supplies they really don't need.

"People get carried away with toys," Schwab said. "I've seen people with birds in a cage where the birds can hardly move they've got so many toys hanging."

For information about Gateway Parrot Club, call Schwab at 427-6341.

The Bissell House Museum renovated

By Barbara Ponder
Staff writer

The Bissell House Museum is a beautiful historic site to most North Countians, but to Beverly Bissell Kalish it was a home.

"When I was a child we all gathered at Bissell House and had Sunday afternoon dinners," said Kalish of Ladue. "It was a very special time with family."

The Bissell family donated the home to the St. Louis County Parks and Recreation Department in 1962. The county this summer began a $79,600 lead removal and porch repair project at the home, 10225 Bellefontaine Road. The project should be completed in September.

Kalish said she and her sisters, Martha Bissell Israel and Eve Bissell Horner, are pleased the county is repairing the home.

"We're very sentimental about the house," Kalish said. "And we were thrilled the county is doing some repairs that are much needed."

Workers are chipping lead paint from Bissell's exterior and repainting it using paint formulated to cover lead paint. The lead paint is poisonous but appealing to children because it has a sweet taste, said Hal A. Olsen Jr., St. Louis County Parks and Recreation Department architect.

The County has conducted similar lead-abatement projects at other historic sites, including the Jarville House in Queeny Park and the Davis and Conway houses in Faust Park, Olsen said.

Olsen said the porch repairs consist of replacing weathered wood. Bissell's porches are original except for the east porch, which the county replaced in 1975.

"It (the east porch) is not in as good shape as some of the porches from the old days," Olsen said. "They used better woods in those days. They used a lot of hardwoods."

Kalish and her immediate family originally lived in a house north of Bissell but in 1932 moved into Bissell. Gen. Daniel Bissell completed the home's original structure in 1818.

"The general came to that part of the county because he was commander of Fort Bell Fontaine and the government gave him property at New Madrid, Missouri," Kalish said. "When the earthquake arrived, he persuaded them to trade the property down there for the Bissell property."

Kalish said Daniel Bissell was a "quite a tyrant" in his day. Bissell's personality is revealed in letters, now stored at the Missouri Historical Society, from the general to his wife.

"When he was here and his family was still in the east, he was giving her all sorts of instructions on how to rear the children," Kalish said. "It was really funny."

Bissell also was involved in a minor duel.

"He didn't like criticism," Kalish said. "He was a pretty tough guy."

Kalish and her sisters sometimes wondered if the home was haunted.

"You know that house creaked an awful lot," Kalish said. "As a young person, I didn't like staying there alone."
